Brent Lehman is a partner practicing in the award-winning litigation group. Brent focuses on entertainment and litigation matters, specializing in the entertainment industry and emerging tech. Trusted deeply by his diverse list of clients, Brent maintains a client-first mentality that is evident in how fiercely he advocates for their interests.

He has represented clients from the music, film, technology, and video game industries in matters including IP disputes, breach of contract, failure to pay contingent compensation, breach of fiduciary duty, white-collar defense, and fraud.

Named a Super Lawyer Rising Star annually since 2022, Brent continues to establish himself in the Los Angeles and greater California area as a go-to civil litigation attorney. He's spent more than a decade building this reputation and honing his litigation skills at reputable boutique and large firms.
