Sophisticated Security for Securities

Munck Wilson Mandala's blockchain and cryptocurrency practice is led by attorneys who bring decades of sophisticated securities and financial regulatory experience.

Overview

Innovative industries require experienced and sensible counsel to execute on dynamic, leading-edge, and high-velocity projects and technologies. Munck Wilson Mandala remains at the forefront of the cryptocurrency movement, counseling companies on the best ways to utilize the digital revolution of blockchain. From start-ups to established industry leaders, companies adopting blockchain technology continue to disrupt a diverse range of sectors, including financial services, venture capital, healthcare, energy, cloud technology, and the Internet of Things (IoT).

Munck Wilson Mandala attorneys strategically advise clients on potential regulatory hurdles, often before many in the industry are aware of them. While representing pioneers across industries, we have gained significant experience shaping programs for companies to enhance their products and their bottom line while staying within the bounds of the ever-changing regulatory landscape of blockchain and cryptocurrency.

Our teams are highly experienced and bring exceptional value to blockchain and cryptocurrency clients through counsel on sophisticated tax strategies, corporate structuring, intellectual property, technology licensing, employee compensation, litigation, and other expertise that is critical to their businesses.

With a solid understanding of business growth, investment strategy, evolving trends, and regulatory changes, we work as partners in the rapidly evolving blockchain and cryptocurrency environment. Our team stays ahead of breaking legal and regulatory developments which both strengthens and protects our clients.
