Cleantech's Competitive Edge

Munck Wilson Mandala attorneys help drive the transition to sustainable energy and provide clean technology clients with trusted counsel and a competitive edge.

Innovative Counsel for Innovators

Munck Wilson Mandala combines the strength of our corporate, regulatory, and litigation practices with our deep expertise in intellectual property, energy, finance, and environmental law to solve our clients' challenges.

Overview

As a leading law firm to pioneering technology and growth companies, Munck Wilson Mandala brings a combination of practical legal experience and familiarity with clean energy innovations, including:

- Advanced energy generation (such as solar, wind, geothermal, waste-to-energy, natural gas, and cleaner coal)
- Battery and other energy storage technologies
- Energy efficiency
- Transmission, distribution and smart grid
- Green building and bio-based chemicals
- Electric vehicle, biofuels, and other transportation technologies

Our team represents many of the leading venture capital firms, private equity firms, and energy project investors critical to the development and commercialization of innovative clean technologies that aim to reduce costs, energy consumption, environmental pollution and waste while improving productivity and efficiencies.

Munck Wilson Mandala attorneys counsel clients in all areas of renewable energy – biofuels, chemical, electric, solar and wind – to successfully navigate the intellectual property, corporate, tax and litigation challenges faced in this highly competitive environment. Our skilled team has expanded considerably to keep pace with this ever-growing sector and advises corporations in all areas of energy consumption, power management, and alternative fuels and materials for a wide range of legal services, including:

- Corporate governance
- Securities
- Venture capital/private equity
- M&A transactions

- Licensing and significant collaborations
- IP strategy and prosecution
- Complex IP litigation
- Employment & labor

With our combined legal and technical expertise, Munck Wilson Mandala attorneys work alongside clients to provide counsel that is efficient, practical and in consideration of our clients' competitive environments. Drawing on expertise across the firm – including corporate finance, energy, technology, intellectual property, real estate, mergers and acquisitions, environmental and regulatory law – our attorneys support clients with any legal issues that arise from developing and commercializing technology, to financing and technology transactions.

We are not, by any stretch of imagination, simply a patent law firm, we provide all the services that tech companies need.” Bill Munck
